All manuscripts must be accompanied by an abstract. The abstract should briefly state the problem or purpose of the research, indicate the theoretical or experimental plan used, summarize the principal findings, and point out major conclusions.

KEYWORDS: If you are submitting your paper to a journal that requires keywords, provide significant keywords to aid the reader in literature retrieval.

1 Introduction

This section presents the background and current status of the research field, summarizes existing studies and relevant progress, analyzes existing problems and challenges, and clarifies the importance and practical significance of this study.

2 Experiment

This section describes the materials, instruments, experimental procedures and parameter settings used in the study. All operations were carried out under controlled conditions to ensure the reliability and repeatability of the results. Detailed experimental designs and implementation processes are provided to support the rationality and validity of the subsequent data analysis.

3 Result

This section presents the erroneous data collected in this study, including data anomalies caused by human error, instrument failure, operational deviation, or other unexpected factors. All invalid, abnormal, or faulty data are clearly displayed and recorded as part of the research process.

4 Conclusion

This section summarizes the observed errors, abnormal data, and unexpected issues in the study. It may include brief reflections on the causes and potential impacts of these faults.

Acknowledge

This section is used to thank individuals or institutions that provided support for the study.

Reference

This section lists the literature cited in the manuscript.
